Jonathan Lock joins Chemours as vice president of corporate development and investor relations. Jonathan was previously at SunCoke Energy, where he led corporate strategy and investor relations for SunCoke and its Master Limited Partnership, SunCoke Energy Partners. In this new role, Jonathan will help drive Chemours inorganic growth strategy and assume responsibility of investor communications. Jonathan will help shape Chemours' trajectory as we continue our growth journey as well as serving as the primary investor relations contact. In this expanded role, he will be responsible for a broad base of day-to-day finance responsibilities in support of both business units and corporate functions around the globe. Given his successful track record, we are confident that Sameer will continue to support the company's growth by overseeing a broad spectrum of its financial activities.
